Introduction

Anyone seeking entry into the United States of America, whether a United States (U.S.) citizen, a U.S. resident or a visitor to the U.S., must have in his/her possession documentation of identity and nationality. In addition, each traveler must be in possession of proper documentation for the purpose of his/her travel. U.S. law provides that transportation carriers may be liable for improperly documented passengers brought to the United States.

The U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Carrier Information Guide serves as a reference aid for travel industry personnel. It outlines the required documents that apply to persons entering or departing the United States. Carrier personnel are urged to familiarize themselves with all sections of the publication and reference it in their examination of travel documents. To request training of carrier staff on topics in this publication, please forward your request via the Carrier Liaison Program email address, CLP@dhs.gov.

Regional Carrier Liaison Groups (RCLG) have been created by CBP to assist carriers with questions regarding U.S. entry, with a primary focus on assisting overseas carriers to determine the authenticity of travel documents. The RCLG will respond to carrier inquiries concerning the validity of travel documents or admissibility of travelers. Once a determination is made on validity or admissibility, the RCLG will make a RECOMMENDATION whether to board the passenger or to deny boarding. The final decision to board or not board lies with the carrier. Regional Carrier Liaison Groups have been established in Miami, New York and Honolulu.

If you are located at an airport serviced by the Immigration Advisory Program (IAP) or the Joint Security Program (JSP), contact should be made with either an IAP or JSP officer.

The RCLGs are available 24 hours a day. This service is available to all carriers worldwide for any flight destined to the United States.

Also, carrier personnel are encouraged to reference two U.S. government internet sites for updates and general information, U.S. Customs and Border Protection www.cbp.gov and the U.S. Department of State, Consular Affairs www.travel.state.gov. # Part VII:

The Advance Passenger Information System

The Advance Passenger Information System (APIS) was developed by the U.S. government in 1989 as a voluntary program in cooperation with the airline industry. Mandatory APIS requirements were first implemented under the Aviation and Transportation Security Act of 2001 and the Enhanced Border Security and Visa Reform Act of 2002. As a result of 9/11 Commission recommendations, Congress mandated that DHS establish a requirement to receive advance information on international passengers traveling by air and sea, prior to their departure as required in the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004.

APIS Final Rule

On April 7, 2005, CBP published the APIS Final Rule. Under the regulations, carriers were required to electronically transmit passenger and crew APIS data for commercial flights arriving in and departing from the United States. The rule established data elements for each traveler including full name, date of birth and document information. Many of the required data elements are found in the Machine Readable Zone of a passport.

APIS Pre-Departure and Interactive APIS Quick Query

On Aug. 23, 2007, CBP published the APIS Pre-Departure Final Rule, with an effective date of Feb. 19, 2008. The rule amended existing regulations and provides three options for commercial air carriers to transmit data.

APIS Transmission

Air carriers may transmit predeparture APIS information either:

- Using the APIS Batch Transmission, in interactive or noninteractive form, that requires air carriers to transmit the complete manifest for all passengers 30 minutes prior to departure.
- Using the APIS Quick Query mode that allows air carriers to transmit in real time as each passenger checks in for the flight prior to boarding.

For vessels departing from foreign ports bound for the U.S., requirements are to transmit passenger and crew arrival manifest data between 24 to 96 hours prior to arrival. Vessel carriers departing the United States are required to transmit APIS data 60 minutes prior to departure.

APIS Document Validation

CBP implemented the Document Validation program that compares APIS data to document information that CBP has on file. Through Document Validation, CBP verifies the APIS data and uses existing interactive communications to advise carriers if the data is on file and if the document is valid. This adds additional security and streamlining of the check-in process.

To ensure accurate matching, the data elements such as the traveler's name, date of birth, and document-issuing country and number must be complete and correct. This can be accomplished by transmitting data that is contained in the Machine Readable Zone.

For more information, contact your APIS account manager.

Part VIII:

Human Trafficking

Potential Victims of Human Trafficking

Human trafficking is a global problem that touches every country in the world; thousands of men, women, and children are trafficked into forced labor situations and into the sex trade worldwide.

Human trafficking involves the use of force, fraud or coercion to exploit someone for forced labor, domestic servitude or commercial sex. Any minor (under the age of 18) engaged in commercial sex is a victim of human trafficking according to federal law, regardless of whether there is force, fraud or coercion. Victims of human trafficking can be of any age, citizenship, gender or any immigration status.

Human traffickers may use commercial aircraft flights as a means to facilitate their crime, either bringing victims into the United States or moving them throughout the country. Aviation personnel interact with thousands of people every day and have the opportunity to identify suspected human trafficking. The Blue Lightning Initiative, one of the lines of effort within the Department of Homeland Security's Blue Campaign, is a joint initiative led by CBP and the Department of Transportation. The initiative trains U.S. commercial airlines and their employees to identify potential human trafficking victims and notify federal authorities in realtime.

There are many indicators of human trafficking. Below are four indicators that you may encounter:

- The person has no control of his or her travel and identification documents
- The person has no freedom of movement to social interaction
- The person has no logical means of reaching or lacks knowledge of his or her final destination
- A child traveler does not seem to be accompanied by his or her parent or legitimate guardian

If you see any indicators of human trafficking, on the ground or in flight, on U.S. international or domestic flights, report them as soon as possible to the Immigration and Customs Enforcement tip line using one of the following:

- Call 866-347-2423 (toll-free in U.S. and Canada), 24 hours a day
- Call 802-872-6199 (tolls apply) in any country in the world, 24 hours a day
- Follow your airline's policy to report a tip immediately. This could be through the Aircraft Communications Addressing and Reporting System or the Domestic Event Network.
- In an emergency situation, call 911 or contact local law enforcement authorities

Do not confront the suspected trafficker or suspected victim.

Do not draw unnecessary attention to yourself, the suspected trafficker or victim that may alert to your suspicions.

Do report your observations.

Do report your tip as a "BLI tip."
