CBP’s agriculture mission is to safeguard America’s agricultural and natural resources. Specially trained agriculture canines work at U.S. ports of entry to detect fruits, vegetables, plants, and animal products that may carry harmful plant pests or foreign animal diseases. These canines are either Beagle or Labrador-mixes and come to CBP from shelters and donations. If you see a CBP beagle sitting next to your bag, be sure to declare all agriculture and food products for everyone’s safety!
