Include a detailed explanation of the incident and why you think it should no longer be a factor in future CBP inspections.

3. Freedom of Information Act (FOIA)

To request a copy of records from U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP), go to the following link: https://foiaonline.regulations.gov/foia/action/public/account/ and create a FOIAonline account. After you create a FOIAonline account you will be able to submit a FOIA request directly to CBP. When submitting a FOIA request on records that pertain to you, please provide your full name, address, and date of birth. If you are requesting records on behalf of someone else, you need a signed G-28 form (Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Accredited Representative), or some other form of signed consent that will allow CBP to release the records to a 3rd party. Once your request is submitted you will receive an acknowledgment and a FOIA tracking number. After your FOIA request is acknowledged you can track the status of your request at any time. Please note that the FOIA process is not intended to be a mechanism for asking questions of CBP. FOIA requests are intended to provide access to CBP records.

Authority to Search

The U.S. Congress has authorized U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) to enforce all homeland security-related laws and laws of other federal agencies at ports of entry. CBP’s authority allows us to conduct searches of people and their baggage, cargo, and vehicles.

Some of the laws and regulations we enforce include:
• Admissibility of aliens
• Importation of agriculture, plant, and animal products
• Importation of goods, animals and produce
• Transportation and reporting of currency and other monetary instruments
• Preventing the entry of illegal drugs and other contraband
• Exportation of weapons and items subject to defense trade controls

Why You May Be Selected for a CBP Inspection

You may be selected for inspection for a variety of reasons including:
• Your travel documents are incomplete or you do not have the proper documents or visa
• You have previously violated one of the U.S. laws that CBP enforces
• Your name matches a person of interest in a government database
• You have been selected for a random search. No search will be made on the basis of race, gender, religion or ethnicity

What to Expect During a CBP Inspection

The CBP officer may request detailed information about your travel, inspect your baggage, and conduct a personal search.

While being inspected, you should be treated in a courteous, dignified, and professional manner. However, please keep in mind that this is a law enforcement environment and travelers who are intent on breaking the law will attempt to find out what the officer is doing in order to avoid detection. For this reason, our CBP officers may not answer specific questions when an inspection is underway. You may always ask to speak with a CBP supervisor.

Collection of Personal Information

CBP collects information about people traveling into and out of the U.S. This includes biographic information, travel documents and where the traveler plans to stay while in the U.S., and the purpose of the traveler’s visit. This information may be collected at a port of entry or, before a traveler’s arrival or departure from the U.S. This information is used to determine the admissibility of aliens and to enforce U.S. laws at the ports of entry. CBP also collects data about businesses, vehicles, aircraft, and vessels related to the laws we enforce.

CBP receives and shares information with other federal, state, and local agencies. CBP may use its enforcement databases to ensure compliance with U.S. laws. Our border enforcement systems provide officers with access to information on outstanding warrants; stolen vehicles, vessels or firearms; license information; criminal histories; and previous federal inspections.
